

L'Enfant et les Sortilèges

The Bewitched Child

Tranquillo ♩ = 112

PIANO pp

CURTAIN

Une pièce à la campagne (plafond très bas), donnant sur un jardin. Une maison normande, ancienne, ou mieux: démodée, de grands fauteuils, housés; une haute horloge en bois à cadran fleuri. Une tenture à petits personnages, bergerie. Une cage ronde à écureuil, pendue près de la fenêtre. Grande cheminée à hotte, un reste de feu possible, une bouilloire qui ronronne. Le Chat aussi. C'est l'après-midi.

The scene presents a room in the country (ceiling very low) opening on a garden. A Normandy house, old, or rather, old-fashioned; large arm-chairs covered with cloth, a tall wooden clock with a decorated dial. Wallpaper depicting pastoral scenes. A round cage with a squirrel in it, hanging near the window. A large fireplace where a small fire burns peacefully. A teakettle purrs, the cat also. It is afternoon.

The Child, six or seven years old, is seated before a task which he has just begun. He is extremely lazy. He bites his penholder, scratches his head and sings softly.

L'Enfant, six ou sept ans, est assis devant un devoir commencé. Il est en pleine crise de paresse, il mord son porte-plume, se gratte la tête et chantonne à demi-voix.

The door opens. Enter Mama (or rather as much as can be seen with the ceiling very low and the entire scale of all the furnishings and all the objects in exaggerated dimensions in order to make more striking the smallness of the Child) that is to say a skirt, the lower part of a silk apron, a steel chain from which hangs a pair of scissors, and a hand. This hand is raised with the index finger pointing.
La porte s'ouvre. Entre Maman (ou plutôt ce qu'en laissent voir le plafond très bas et l'échelle de tout le décor où tous les objets assument des dimensions exagérées, pour rendre frappante la petitesse de l'Enfant) c'est-à-dire une jupe, le bas d'un tablier de soie, la chaîne d'acier où pend une paire de ciseaux, et une main. Cette main se lève, interroge de l'index.

MAMAN, affectueusement. MAMA, affectionately.

The Child makes no reply and pouting, slips down low in his chair. The skirt moves forward, one hand over the copybook. The other hand, higher, holds a tray on which are a teapot and a cup L'Enfant ne répond rien et se laisse glisser, boudeur, en bas de sa chaise. La robe s'avance sur la scène, une main tendue au-dessus du cahier. L'autre main, plus haute, soutient un plateau portant la théière et la tasse du goûter.

He opens the box of the large clock, hangs on the copper balance which breaks loose in his hands.

Il ouvre la boîte de la grande Horloge, se pend au balancier de cuivre, qui lui resté entre les mains.

Satiated with devastation and completely out of breath, he is about to fall into a large armchair covered with flowered cloth. But, oh surprise! the arms of the chair fall apart, the seat steals away and the chair, hobbling along like an enormous toad, moves away.

Saôul de dévâstâtion, il va tomber essoufflé entre les bras d'un grand fauteuil couvert d'une housse à fleurs. Mais, ô surprise! les bras du fauteuil s'écartent, le siège se dérobe, et le Fauteuil, clopinant lourdement comme un énorme crapaud, s'éloigne.

System 1 of a musical score. It consists of five staves. The top two staves are labeled 'C' and 'B' and contain vocal lines with long, flowing notes. The bottom three staves are for piano accompaniment, featuring a rhythmic pattern of eighth notes in the right hand and chords in the left hand.

System 2 of a musical score. It consists of five staves. The top two staves are labeled 'C' and 'B' and contain vocal lines. The bottom three staves are for piano accompaniment, with more complex rhythmic patterns and some dynamic markings like accents (>) and a hairpin (h).

System 3 of a musical score. It consists of five staves. The top two staves are labeled 'C' and 'B' and contain vocal lines. The bottom three staves are for piano accompaniment, continuing the rhythmic and harmonic patterns from the previous systems.

Emerging from a large album, opened in the shape of a roof, is a little humpbacked, crooked, bearded old man with a π for a hat, a tape measure for a belt, and armed with a ruler.

D'un grand album, plié en forme de toit, sort un petit vieillard bossu, crochu, barbu, vêtu de chiffres, coiffé d'un π , ceinturé d'un mètre de couturière et armé d'une équerre.

He holds a wooden book with which he beats time, and he walks with little dancing steps while reciting fragments of problems.

Des arbres, des fleurs, une toute petite mare verte, un gros tronc vêtu de lierre. Musique d'insectes, de rainettes, de crapauds, de rires de chouettes, de mur-mures de brise, et de rossignols.

Trees, flowers, a little green pool, a great tree trunk covered with ivy. The music of insects, of frogs, of toads; the cries of screech-owls, the murmur of a breeze, and of nightingales.

First system of the musical score. It consists of a vocal line (treble clef) and a piano accompaniment (grand staff). The vocal line begins with a ppp dynamic and a melodic line. First system of musical notation, featuring two staves. The upper staff contains a melodic line with slurs and accents, while the lower staff provides a harmonic accompaniment with sustained notes and dynamic markings such as p. and p..

Second system of musical notation, continuing the piece with similar melodic and accompanimental textures. Dynamic markings like p. and p. are present.

Third system of musical notation, showing further development of the musical themes. The lower staff includes dynamic markings such as p. and p..

Fourth system of musical notation, featuring a change in dynamics with markings m.g. and m.d. above the upper staff. The accompaniment continues with sustained notes.

Fifth system of musical notation, concluding the page with a melodic line in the upper staff and accompaniment in the lower staff. A dynamic marking m.g. is visible in the lower right.

They jump up and begin to play in the way that frogs do.
Elles sortent, et se mettent à jouer à la manière des rainettes.

First system of musical notation. It consists of three staves: a treble clef staff at the top, a bass clef staff in the middle, and a bass clef staff at the bottom. The key signature is three sharps (F#, C#, G#). The top staff contains a melodic line with notes and rests, marked with m.g. (mezzo-giochiato). The middle staff contains a series of chords, marked with m.d. (mezzo-dolce). The bottom staff contains a bass line with notes and rests.

Second system of musical notation, continuing from the first system. It features the same three-staff layout. The top staff continues the melodic line with m.g. markings. The middle staff continues the chordal accompaniment with m.g. markings. The bottom staff continues the bass line.

Third system of musical notation. The title "Dance of the Frogs" and "Danse des Rainettes" is written above the first staff. The key signature remains three sharps. The top staff features a more active melodic line with slurs and accents, marked with p (piano). The middle and bottom staves continue the accompaniment.

Fourth system of musical notation, the final system on the page. It continues the piece with the same three-staff layout. The top staff has a melodic line with slurs and accents. The middle and bottom staves provide the accompaniment.

First system of musical notation. It consists of three staves: a single treble staff at the top and a grand staff (treble and bass) below. The key signature has three sharps (F#, C#, G#). The top staff contains a melodic line with a long slur. The grand staff contains a complex accompaniment with sixteenth-note patterns and chords.

Second system of musical notation, continuing the piece. It features the same three-staff layout. The accompaniment in the grand staff becomes more intricate with sixteenth-note runs and chordal textures.

Third system of musical notation. The melodic line in the top staff continues with a long slur. The accompaniment in the grand staff features a steady rhythmic pattern of chords and moving lines.

Fourth system of musical notation, the final system on the page. It concludes with a final cadence in the grand staff and a sustained note in the top staff.

The first system of musical notation consists of three staves. The top staff is a single treble clef staff with a key signature of three sharps (F#, C#, G#) and a common time signature. It contains a melodic line with a long slur over the first four measures. The middle and bottom staves are grand staff notation (treble and bass clefs). The middle staff has a complex rhythmic accompaniment with many sixteenth and thirty-second notes, and the bottom staff provides a harmonic accompaniment with chords and single notes.

The second system of musical notation consists of three staves. The top staff continues the melodic line from the first system, with a slur over the first three measures and a fermata over the fourth. The middle and bottom staves continue the accompaniment, with the middle staff showing more intricate rhythmic patterns and the bottom staff providing harmonic support.

The third system of musical notation consists of three staves. The top staff continues the melodic line with a slur over the first four measures. The middle and bottom staves continue the accompaniment, with the middle staff showing more intricate rhythmic patterns and the bottom staff providing harmonic support.

The fourth system of musical notation consists of three staves. The top staff continues the melodic line with a slur over the first four measures. The middle and bottom staves continue the accompaniment, with the middle staff showing more intricate rhythmic patterns and the bottom staff providing harmonic support.

Musical score system 1, featuring a treble clef staff and two bass clef staves. The music is in a key with three sharps (F#, C#, G#) and a 2/4 time signature. It includes piano accompaniment with various rhythmic patterns and dynamics.

Musical score system 2, continuing the piece with similar notation and piano accompaniment.

All the animals at one and the same time fall on the Child, hem him in, push and pull him. It is a frenzy which becomes a wrestling match, for each animal wants to chastise the Child, single-handed, and the animals begin to tear one another to pieces.
 Toutes les bêtes fondent à la fois sur l'Enfant, le cernent, le poussent, le tirent. C'est une frénésie qui devient lutte, car chaque bête veut être seule à châtier l'Enfant, et les bêtes commencent à s'entredéchirer.

The Child is pushed back and forth, passed from paw to paw. At the height of the struggle, he is thrown into a corner of the stage and forgotten by the animals in their orgy of fighting. Almost at the same time a little wounded squirrel falls down with a sharp cry near the Child.

L'Enfant, pris, délivré, repris, passe de pattes en pattes. Au plus fort de la lutte, il est projeté dans un coin de la scène, et les bêtes l'oublient dans leur ivresse de combattre. Presque en même temps, un petit écureuil, blessé, vient choir auprès de l'Enfant avec un cri aigu.

They come closer together and surround the motionless Child. The squirrels are suspended from the branches above him, the dragonflies fan him with their wings.
Elles se sont rapprochées, elles entourent l'Enfant, gisant. Les Écureuils se suspendent aux branches au-dessus de lui, les Libellules l'éventent de leurs ailes.
